

What People Are Saying About the Bloomberg Financial Markets Lab...

Danielle Leonardis '87

"The Bloomberg Financial Markets Lab provides an empowering experience for the students, giving them greater direction in the field of finance, making it easier to manage and navigate. It's another tool in their toolbox which will improve their feeling of self-worth, so they rely on themselves and not others to succeed."

Karen Calta, Asst. Directress

"This opportunity puts Mount Saint Mary Academy at the forefront of economic and financial education on the high school level!"

Megan Spezzi-Kulakis '97

"The Lab brings the real world of finance into the classroom and I think it affords Mounties a leg up on other students from other schools looking to go into the financial industry. It also gives the students an opportunity to see if business and finance is something they truly want to pursue at an earlier age."

Emrit Nijjar '19

"Since I intend to pursue an economics major at Barnard College, the Bloomberg Financial Markets Lab is extremely beneficial because it taught me beyond the scope of a classroom and gave me valuable skill sets that will prepare me for future economic endeavors!"

Emma King '19

"Working with Bloomberg Financial Markets Lab has taught me a lot about the real-life applications to the concepts I've studied in math, economics, and history. It's exciting to know I can navigate Bloomberg, which gives me a leg up in college and beyond. I feel more prepared to enter the workforce."

Alicia Iacono, Social Studies Chair

"Just the presence of the Bloomberg terminals in the classroom heightens students' curiosity about how they work. Once they actually begin to use them in class, students gain a better understanding of financial markets, the overall economy and future career possibilities. This is another great example of how the Mount challenges our students to learn beyond the traditional walls of the classroom!"
